

HUNGRY EYES: Caprice will be in Ireland to wine — and dine? — with pal Ian Galvin

TV3's Ian burns the 46 candles at both ends

WHO was it that said you know you're getting old when the candles cost more than the cake. Myself? Groucho Marx?

Oh well, it's not the right intro for TV3 Style Wars' judge Ian Galvin anyway. He's only 46 (since last Sunday) and his cake was a light affair.

As was the party at his home in Tramore, Co Waterford (his second; he also has a place in Dublin).

"There was a great group of us to celebrate my birthday — Miriam Ahern and her partner Terry came from Dublin, my good friend Sonja Mohlich came for the weekend, my brother Philip and his partner Siobhan Reddy, and Sinead Whelan joined us, too," Ian told me. "So we had a brilliant evening looking out over the bay with our meal."

It's all go for Ian. On July 29, Caprice, his fellow judge on Style Wars, will be flying over from London with Karen Millen.

"Caprice and I stayed with Karen in the UK a fortnight ago, so now it's my turn to host, and I will be bringing the girls out and about around Tramore and Dunmore for some long coastal walks and plenty of R&R after the last few months of filming," he said.

And if Ian, Karen and Caprice are looking for places to dine in Waterford and beyond — they would be well advised to log on to our own Lucinda O'Sullivan's website.

Luscious Lucinda's new restaurant and accommodation website www.lucindaosullivan.com is the benchmark on where to find not just a good bed and a good bite, but a Great Place to Stay and a Great Place to Eat.

Does Caprice even eat?
