

'I'll never get wed'

Topping gift lists for a second time, Caprice Bourret's bras will be worn by more than two million women this Christmas. Here, the 36-year-old model, actress and Big Brother star explains that, while she loves helping women spice up their relationships, she'll never tie the knot herself.

Your underwear range has topped the Christmas present list again. What do women love about it?

It's fashionable, functional and it fits. I work hard making sure all my items are cut so they flatter the figure and there are no lumps and bumps. It's comfortable and it's the sort of stuff women can wear every day but it's still luxurious enough to make you feel special. My designs give women body-confidence, which makes them feel sexier – so the women, and their partners, get the benefit.

What's your best-selling item?

A candy stripe balcony bra. Women love it because it's so girly, the fit is perfect and it gives you a bit of a lift at the same time. It's sexy and cute without being over the top and not too revealing or difficult to wear.

There are plenty of celebrities who have underwear ranges. What's so special about your range?

I invested all of my money in my underwear company, I work on the designs and fits until they're perfect. I'm doing something practically every day on it. My name and my money are at stake here. I listen to what the customer wants and if they like or don't like a certain design, I'll change my range accordingly.

Some celebrity underwear ranges only look good on women who have perfect figures. Is yours different?

Yes – my designs are created to flatter all shapes and sizes. I'm not in this to be exclusive to thin women – I want all women to look good and feel great in my underwear.

As you model your underwear yourself, how do you keep in shape?

When I know I've got a shoot coming up I'll watch what I eat more. One of my favourite diet tricks is to eat what I want during the day, then only eat protein after 5pm.

That seems to help me keep the weight off. I go to spinning classes at the gym and you'll often see me riding my bike around London in my tracksuit.

You were a big hit with the audiences on Celebrity Big Brother. Would you do any more reality TV shows?

I'd love to do more reality TV. Bring it on, I say.

Are you doing any more TV?

I've just done a pilot for a sitcom musical Rent (now being played by Denise van Outen), I've done The Vagina Monologues and I produced and starred in Debbie Does Dallas: The Musical, co-starring with Vinnie Jones.

You've been with your boyfriend, property developer John Hitchcox, since last August. Are you planning to tie the knot?

No. I'm not interested in marriage. I don't need a bit of paper to validate our relationship. I love him with all my heart but we just take things a day at a time. We might have kids one day, but you're definitely not going to see a wedding around here.

What are you doing for Christmas?

Me and John are going to Cape Town where we have a house. I love it there because it's hot and sunny at this time.

called Candy Chops. I play a spiteful PR woman and it's hilarious.

So it's a comedy?

Yeah. People see me as this serious model, but I've actually done loads of different stuff. I've played the lead in the
